WESTERN CANADA POSTAL HISTORY

Because of the various changes of ownership, name and boundaries of the various Provinces, Territories and Towns, we have decided for the sake of simplicity to sort this large section, whenever possible, by the Province or Territory indicated in the cancel. Thus, some towns which continued to use NWT hammers after the territorial name change, etc, will be sorted under the NWT cancel designation, and towns which changed their name or Territory may be sorted in up to four different places. We encourage collectors to check all possibilities if they are looking for a particular Town or Territory.

WESTERN – RED RIVER SETTLEMENT

All Red River covers/letters are scarce and arrangements for early mails to/from the Red River Settlement and area were sporadic and constantly changing, sometimes forcing residents to find innovative ways to send letters and parcels up to 1858. Mail was sent at least partially by favour/private courier/ H.B.Co. routes and by U.S./Canadian mails. From 1858-62 Canadian authorities operated a Lake Superior mail route through Collingwood, but after that the U.S. Post Office at Pembina was the only outlet for mail until a Canadian Post Office was established at Fort Garry in 1871.
